Dear Contributor:

We are pleased that you have contributed an article to The Family Firm Institute's ("FFI") publication, FFI Practitioner. So that no misunderstanding occurs between us, I would like to define our arrangement in more detail.

1. You have furnished original material ("the Material").
2. FFI reserves the right to refuse to publish the Material, or any portions thereof if the contents of same are deemed unsatisfactory or if in FFI's sole discretion FFI declines for any reason to publish the Material.
3. It is understood and you have represented and warranted to FFI that: (i) the Material you have furnished is an original contribution prepared by you specifically for FFI Practitioner, (ii) you are the copyright owner of the Material, (iii) the Material has not been published in whole or in part in any printed or electronic form elsewhere, (iv) you will not release the Material for any purpose prior to publication in FFI Practitioner or prior to FFI's written notice to you that FFI will not publish it (iv) the Material does not infringe or violate any copyright, violate any personal or property rights, or contain any scandalous, libelous or unlawful matter; and (v) to the extent the Material contains descriptions of or references to any non-public cases, engagements, or transactions, you will be solely responsible for ensuring the anonymity of any persons involved in such cases, engagements or transactions. You will defend, indemnify and hold harmless FFI, its officers, directors, members, employees, agents and representatives against all claims, suits, losses, or damages, including but not limited to, reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs that may be incurred as a result of any libelous or unlawful matter contained in the Material or infringement of any copyright or of any personal or property right or any other breach of this Letter of Agreement.
4. You hereby grant FFI a non-exclusive license to the Material, including the right to make changes in the Material (including any changes to the title) for clarity, brevity, and conformity to style. You will be contacted about the Material before it is finalized only if substantive changes, as determined by FFI, in its sole discretion, are made in the editing process. You will not receive proofs of the Material. The editor will be responsible for all proofreading of the Material. Only typographical errors will be corrected. As part of the non-exclusive license granted hereby you give FFI the right to permit others to use the Material as it sees fit.
5. The Material will be published and sold by FFI, in its own name or any other name selected by FFI in its sole discretion, throughout the world. Nonetheless, you retain all rights in the Material subsequent to publication by FFI, subject to the non-exclusive license granted hereby.
6. If, for any reason, the Material is not published in whole, it will be returned to you with the understanding that you are free to use it for any purpose you desire.
7. You will keep FFI informed of any change in your address.

We assume that the above agreement meets with your approval. To avoid any possible misunderstanding, please sign one copy of this letter and return it to me promptly and keep a copy for your records.
